WASHINGTON (AP) -An unarmed propeller-driven U.S. Navy plane was shot down by Chinese Communist MIG aircraft after it "inadvertently strayed into air space" off Red China's Hainan Island, the Defense Department announced Wednesday.

The Pentagon said the incident soccurred Tuesday night when two unarmed Navy Al-Skyraiders "experienced navigational difficulties" while on a ferry plane trip from Cubi Point in the Philippines to the aircraft carrier Coral Sea in the Gulf of Tonkin. "One of the planes was shot down by Communist MIG aircraft," the announcement said. It placed the spot about five miles off the east coast of Hainan Island.

The second A1 left the scene and landed at Da Nang in South Vietnam, the Pentagon said.

(PAO) - A scene common to the harbors and coastline of the United States is being reenacted along the shores of South Vietnam, as U.S. Coast Guard buoy tenders establish and maintain a system of navigational buoys at the entrance to many of this country's seaports.

The most recent to bring the long experience and specialized equipment of the Coast Guard in buoy work to Vietnam was the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Basswood.

Basswood. The cutter, operating out of Guam, completed her 30-day tour with her busiest day work-ing 10 buoys in the harbor of the central constal city of Vung Tail. The operation involved bringing the buoys a bo ar d, cleaning and repairing electrical equipment, replacing power packs and replanting the buoys, which ranged in weight from 700 pounds to lighted five-ton sea aids.

"It's not as easy as it looks," bys one of the cutter's beat ays

At this point a beavy roll of the ship or a sudden pull on the mooring chain due to currents can cause the baow to swine wildly even the buoy to swing wildly over the deck. Although the buoys presently used in Vietnam are presently used in viennam are not as large or as heavy as many which the tenders handle in other areas, it is still a chal-lenging operation. "Besides bad weather another dangerous feature of working in these areas of Vietnam is inter-ference by other vessels travel-ing in the vicinity," says the commanding officer, Robert O. Slade

The process of making Viet-nam safer for merchant and military vessels is new and still not complete. The Coast Guard has sent three cutters to Vietat intervals of six months nam afready es-the Viet-a 70 for 30-day tours to establish new aids and reservice already esaids and reservice already es-tablished aids dotting the Viet-numese coastline. With some 70 merchant ships arriving month-ly and hundreds of military craft plying the coastal waters daily, the booys play an im-portunt factor in the upkeep of the war effort.

There are many problems working this far from home without nearby Coast Guard base or blog depols with their base of buoy depots with their ready supply of buoys, moor-lags, batteries, flashers and parts. However, the Basswood is no stranger to this type of operation, having operated in the Pacific for many years.

The Vietnamese Directorate of Navigation has one buoy tender and maintains a navigation aids system which was adequate for pre-war shipping. However, the rapid development of port facilities and U.S. bases in areas where previously there was little shipping created a re-quirement which they could not meet by themselves.

The U.S. Coast Guard is pro viding advisory assistance to the directorate so that South Vietnam will eventually be able to maintain the entire system.

In the meantime, the Bass ood and other 180-foot buoy buoy tenders are becoming a fami-liar sight in Vietnam.

The major break-through in learning the secrets of the ice cap was made by the U.S. Army, with logistical support from the Navy. The Army team struck rock one mile and one-third beneath the surface.

It was the first time the ice sheet had been penetrated to the bottom. And the achievement has been hailed as a landmark in Antarctic research.

Studies of the 5-inch-in-dia-meter lee core which has been removed from the hole and samples of the underlying rock are expected to give important insights into the history of the earth's climate and atmosphere over tens of these and atmosphere thing to do in the off-daty hours when time stands still. Where these men work time does, indeed, seem to stand still. For months on end the sun never sets. Then, again for months on end. It never rises. Long day-in and long day-out, tnese men see only a few of their fellow beings, and always the same ones. There have been occasions, happily few, when a man punched a colleague in the nose because, under the circumstanc-ees, he couldn't stand the sight of his face any longer. SOME ASSOCIATES of Gov. George Romney of Michi-Some Associates of Gov. George Romney of Michi-gan think he will stay in the fight for the 1968 Re-publican presidential nomination even if he loses both the New Hampshire and the Wisconsin primaries. But the point of this Romncy news is that it cuts down Rockefeller's options. At least through April 2 and possibly much longer, he could not change his mind if he wanted to.

Be wanted to. Rommey has done well so far in New Hampshire, according to most on-scene accounts. His ground-level, face-on campaign-ing has been every bit as good as predicted by his most op-timistic backers. And, on such issues as Vietnam and related foreign matters, he has been much more plausible than he sounded through much of 1967.

It is precisely this point-that the islands were traditionally held and developed by Japanthat prompts her request that

But why?

'That," says an American

Embassy official, "is a question that keeps bothering me. Why do the Soviets hang on to these islands so stubbornly?"

"We have seen Russian sol-diers on Kunashiri," says an official of the Japan Fisheries office, "and we know there are observation towers on the lands, but most Soviet fishing boats come from the Kamchatka peninsula,"

There used to be 30,000 Japanese there, but those there now are under arrest-part of 10,-409 fishermen captured by the Soviets through last November, for fishing in what the Japanese still regard as their home waters. Since the Soviets have held the islands, they have estab-lished a 12-mile "no fishing" establimit. Every time a Japanese boat goes inside that barrier, it runs the risk of capture. Japan has repeatedly asked for a reduction to the more commonly used 3-mile limit,

"The Soviets still hold 110 fishermen, nearly all of them boat captains," says the Japa-nese Fisheries official, "Comscamen usually are returned to us within a month, but the captains are held, questioned, go through a trial, and often spend from two to five years in Soviet prisons.

"When they come back to us." he said, "they came back to us," he said, "they say that they were questioned about where they lived, but nothing that seems to be of much value—just details on their life."

And, Abby, if you know of a planet where it is acceptable for a girl to ask a boy for a date, please let me know. I am packed and ready.

A PROTESTER DEAR PROTESTER: I agree. The system is all wrong. Not only do the girls outnumber the boys, but they mature earlier and are ready, willing and eager to commingle while the boys stand around with their hands in their pockets, blushing it up. No wonder the women are becoming the

Some just require a little more practice. I wouldn't recommend changing one's name, but it might simplify matters if one name, but it might simplify matters if one were to change the spelling. For instance, Hyszczynsky can become Hisschinsky. And Ardziewsky can become Arjeffsky. WHEN IN TOKYO, DO AS THE ROMES DO.

See "Gone With the Wind" (on the stage of the Imperial Theater) a couple of times, then go back to New York and write it into a musical.

Harold Rome and his wife arrived in Tokyo last week at the behest of the Toho Company. He has been commissioned to write the music and words for a Japanese musical version of "G.W.W."

Rome's contract with Toho calls for delivery of the songs by April, 1969. The show will be presented in the Imperial Theater. There is not talk of a film version as yet.

Kazuo Kikuta, managing director of the Toho Co., is to translate Rome's lyrics.ma

It is Rome's first visit to Japan, but he felt right at home when he rode down the hotel elevator on his way to a press conference because over the public address system came the music of "Wish You Were Here."

Rome wrote "Wish" and it was a hit on Broadway back in 1952.

He's written some pretty good shows during the past 35 years of knocking heads along Tin Pan Alley—such as "I Can Get It For You Wholesale" in 1963, "Destry Rides Again" in 1959, "Fanny" in 1954, and "Call Me Mister" in 1946 (right after he got out of the Army.)

"I plan to incorporate the flavor of the Old South of the Civil War period with the modern tastes of today," Rome said.

"The problem is not 'how' to do it, but what we do to 'move' the audience," he added. Rome said he was "overwhelmed" with the Japanese dramatic version of "G.W.W." He was also highly im-pressed with the Imperial Theater saying the theater here has "more backstage resources and scenic opportunities."

He was complimentary of the "faithfulness with which Opening lead: King of 4 Altho North's double of West's preemptive four-club bid is in-tended primarily for penalty, på, ther is permitted some lati-tude in leaving the double in. South displayed good judg-ment in bidding four spades for, with the favorable lie of the cards, West cannot be defeated on the deal. In fact, he can ac-tually win 11 tricks, for North can do no more than cash out his two aces. West opened the king of clubs apainst four spades and the ace was played from dummy. The king of spades was cashed and, when West showed out, discard-ing a club, East was revealed to hold if sure trump trick. South's outlobk was not very promising for, with two appar-ently inescapable losers in the black suits, he must hold his remaining loss to only one more trick.

He could lead a heart toward dummy's king, playing West for the ace. How-ever, this prospect d'd not ap-par promising for, if West held that card in addition to the king of diamonds and his club hon-ors, he might have been ex-pacted to open the bidding with one club rather than make a preemptive call. East's failure to trump the fourth round of diamonds pro-vided further enlightenment to the declarer. It appeared to him that, if East had another club, it would have been routine for the latter to ruff in and re-turn his partner's suit. East won the trick with the jack of spades and, having nothing left but hearts, he could do no more than cash the ace of that suit, thereby establishing North's king for the fulfilling trick.

Wood Flashes Into 2nd in Figure Skating

(Continued From Page 17) Schwarz of Austria, who be-came the heavy favorite followcame the heavy favorite follow-ing the shocking collapse of his countryman, Emmerich Dan-zer, Danzer, the world cham-pion who figured for a certain gold medal, plummeted from first after Tuesday's first two figures to fourth with virtually no chance of winning a gold or silver medal.

Wood looked a solid bet to pick up the United States' sev-enth medal, all won by the ska-ters--Peggy Fleming's gold, three silvers and a bronze by the women speed skaters and McDermott's.

Account's. "These figures are the best he ever has done in a major inter-national competition," said Wood's father, Dr. Kennedy A. Wood. "We are real excited be-cause we feel Tim can make it to the top." Schwarz has 1,006,8 points to Wood's 992.4.

However, the U.S. pairs figure skating team of Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman of Seattle, Wash., finished a disappointing sixth as Bussians won the gold and silver medals.

The brother and sister team. The brother and sater trans, U.S. champions, were fifth after the compulsory figures Sonday and began well in the free skat-ing Wednesday before Ronald stepped backward at the begin-ning of the death spin and Cynt-hia fell toward the end of the divinlay. display

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)-Jumbo Jim Nash, who ballooned to 245 pounds a year ago and wound up a losing pitcher as a result, returned his signed 1948 contract to the Offkland A's Tuesday along with a note saying he has lost 30 pounds.

Nash, who created quite a stir in 1969 when he posted a 12-1 record after coming up from the minors in July, slipped to 12-17 last year and blamed excess weight for his poor performance.

Nash lost the excess weight while serving a six-month Army hitch, which ends on March 1, when he will report to the A's training camp at Bradenton, Fla.

"I can't wait to get going," he told A's manager Bob Kennedy in a recent letter. "I think I can pitch back to my 1966 record now that I have shed the extra weight."

than can explain figure skating to a Ph.D. Sixty per cent of it is something called (ugh!) "com-pulsory school figures" which are as boring as they sound. The skaters, to a man (or woman) hate them. All they are is figure-8s examined down to the square root of three by a comical set of judges, who study them as if they were a possibly-bogus Leonardo Da Vinci. They award points with the abandon of a banker giving a loan to a guy with holes in his shoes.

Peggy Fleming, 19, wouldn't be the best in the world it her faither, the late Albert Fleming, once a pressman for The Times, hadn't gone to Cleveland from California to study color engraving 10 years ago. Bored in a cramped apartment house, Peggy wandered down to tho neighborhood lee rink. It was like the day Willie Mays got his first bat.

Peggy perfected her technique in San Jose and Los Angeles for the next several years. She didn't spend all day at it—just seven hours. She didn't work all year— just 11 months. So, she hasn't dedicated her life to it— just some 23,450 waking hours. She never wore her skates to bed. Pegev is as feasible

Peggy is as fragiley and palely beautiful as, say, an Audrey Hepburn to whom she has been compared. She is as competitively tough as a Katharine Hepburn who would have won a gold medal, too, if all it required was hard work.

New, In the world of figure skating, this, too, is fortuitous. It was the magazine writer Bob Otturn, who put the theory of accession in figure skating into words, "It is rather like becoming the first vice-president in the Elks. As soon as the president serves his time and steps down, you step up. You serve your apprenticeship as No. 2 in figure skating and, when No. 1 goes in the Ice Follies, you are No. 1." It is not altogether that simple, of course, but the frest two days "compulsory figures" found Peggy Fleming with an astonishing 78-point lead over her closest ice cutter. Consensus was, she would have to drown to lose the freestyle skating which is 40 per cent of the total and a wild, reckless exhibition of skating as different from the figures as a mini-skirt from a num's haht. Peggy went on to win the gold medal. Playmate Who Knows Her Geography

Playboy's March Playmate of the Month, Michelle Hamilton, Is a 19-year-old Pasadena City College freshman with a global outlook. With jaunts to Mexico, Hawaii and Japan behind her-and a summer visit to Germany in her future-she exhibits an unusual heat for foreign languages. Already fluent in Spanish and a language major at PCC, she adds to it with several afternoon courses a week in conversational German, Mike-as she likes to be called-has her cinnamon eyes set on a slot at the United Nations as interpreter. In the meanwhile, she likes to ride horseback, scoot to isolated beaches or hike in the hills. An ac-complished guitarist who likes to write her own songs, she also finds time to settle down to a good book. (Playboy) victum. Spec. 4 Larry G. Comstock of Hq. and Hq. Det., 52nd Signal Bn., was driving to his duty station when he came upon the scene of an accident involving two motorcycles and noticed a Vietnamese girl being dragged from the wreckage.

Comstock noted that the girl had stopped breathing, and im-mediately applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

He continued for about seven minutes before the girl began breathing again. She was later taken to a Vietnamese hospital, where she was reported in ex-cellent condition.

"I don't like to hear children cry, but when she started cry-ing that was the most wonder-ful sound I had ever heard," Comstock said.
